Beagle Club of Canada

Code of Ethics

Adopted : _JUNE 8, 2015_____

The Beagle Club of Canada (hereafter referred to as “The Club”), recognizing our responsibility to the breed, sets forth this Code of Ethics to reflect the desire of the membership to keep the Beagle sound, healthy, free of hereditary diseases, and conforming to the official breed standard as sanctioned by the Canadian Kennel Club.

RESPONSIBILITIES AS A BEAGLE OWNER

Members shall ensure that their dogs are kept safe and under control at all times. Members shall properly train their dogs so that they are an asset to their community and not a nuisance. Dogs must be maintained with their safety and good health in mind at all times, including adequate and appropriate attention and socialization, grooming, feeding, veterinary care, housing, exercise and training.

RESPONSIBILITIES AS A MEMBER OF THE CLUB

Members’ responsibilities include educating the public about the breed, keeping in mind that they and their beagles represent the Beagle, The Club, and the sport of pure bred dogs in general.

Members must accept the published Breed Standard of the Canadian Kennel Club as the standard description of physical and temperamental qualities by which the Beagle is to be judged.

Members are required to exhibit good sportsmanship at all canine events, competitions, and with all members of The Club, abiding by the applicable rules and regulations set forth by the governing bodies for such events.

Members’ conduct shall always be in accordance with the purposes and intent of The Club’s Constitution and By-Laws. In addition, members shall display a cheerful willingness to help newcomers and observers of the breed.

While differences in opinions between members may occur from time to time, members shall always treat each other with dignity and respect. This includes, but is not limited to; electronic media such as Facebook, Twitter, email; telephone; and in person.

By signing the Membership Application, the applicant indicates that they have read, understand and will adhere to the Code of Ethics of the Beagle Club of Canada as it relates to them.

RESPONSIBILITIES AS A BREEDER

Members are encouraged to think very carefully over their decision when they undertake to breed a litter. Breeding should only be undertaken with the objects of The Club in mind, that is: recognizing that the Beagle was developed as a working hound, encouraging the improvement of the breed by careful and selective breeding of Beagles that possess the structure, soundness, temperament, natural ability and personality that are characterized in the Standard of the breed, and doing all possible to advance and promote the perfection of these qualities.

Members who do breed Beagles are expected to demonstrate honesty and fairness in dealing with other owners and breeders, purchasers of dogs and the general public.

Members owning breeding animals should do all appropriate health testing to ensure they are using animals as genetically and physically sound as possible.

Members shall assure the general health of the sire and dam at the time of breeding, and shall not breed if it could compromise the health of the animals. Appropriate age of breeding partners shall always be considered.

Members who breed shall only sell puppies, permit stud service and/or lease any stud dogs or brood bitches to individuals who give satisfactory evidence that they will give proper care and attention to the animals concerned, and who may be expected generally to act within the intent of the statements of this Code of Ethics.

Members are encouraged to use clear, concise written contracts to document the sale of animals, use of stud dogs, and lease arrangements. The use, when appropriate, of non-breeding agreements is recommended.

Members shall not sell dogs at auction, or to brokers or commercial dealers.

Members are expected to follow CKC requirements for record-keeping, identification of animals and registration procedures.

Members understand and acknowledge that they may need to take back, or assist in finding a new home for, any dog they produce at any time in its life, if required.

By signing the Membership Application, the applicant indicates that they have read, understand and will adhere to the Code of Ethics of the Beagle Club of Canada as it relates to them.
